Welcome!

What is your dream for your future? Are you a dedicated student? An exceptional athlete? A talented technician or community volunteer? No matter what your talents, abilities and passions are, the Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties wants to help you use them to pursue your higher education dreams.

The Scholarship Directory, published each year by the Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties, provides valuable financial aid information to students pursuing education beyond high school. Although many of the scholarships listed in this guide are for high school seniors, there are several for students already enrolled in college as well as non-traditional students.

There are literally thousands of local and national scholarships available to students today. Featured on the pages of this guide are scholarships available to Palm Beach County area students. We also have included a list of additional scholarship sources, including Internet references. And remember – your high school guidance counselor is a valuable resource. Visit with them frequently and check bulletins and listings available at your school. Also check with the financial aid offices of schools to which you are applying. Knowing what sources of aid are available to you may help you determine your school of choice.

Addresses, phone numbers, email addresses and Web sites are listed as a way for you to request information and communicate with the organizations administering the scholarships. If an address is not listed for a scholarship that interests you, the application should be available in your high school's guidance office or from college financial aid offices.

We hope this guide is a helpful resource as you consider the numerous financial aid opportunities available to you.

Congratulations students! An exciting year awaits you.

About the Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties: Improving Communities through the Power of Giving

The Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties improves our communities through the power of giving. Since 1972, the Community Foundation has granted over $90 million to nonprofit organizations in the community. The Community Foundation accepts contributions in support of community initiatives, special projects and permanent endowment. Income from endowment is used to make grants and award scholarships primarily in Palm Beach and Martin counties.

As part of its commitment to Palm Beach and Martin county communities, the Community Foundation also administers a scholarship program that each year helps local students pursue higher education. To date, the Community Foundation has awarded more than $7.1 million in scholarships to more than 1,600 area students.

Scholarship Timetable for High School Seniors

Now is the time to begin searching for scholarships for which you may be eligible – they are out there, but you need to look for them. This guide is a good place to start. Also check out free scholarship search sites on the Internet (see page 7 for a list of online resources). Click here to view the Scholarship Planner, a PowerPoint presentation of a timeline that you can follow to assist you in your search for educational funding.

There are two very important deadlines to make note of:

February 1

Applications for scholarships offered by the Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties must be completed online at www.yourcommunityfoundation.org on or before February 1. To apply for one or more scholarships from the Community Foundation:

- Access the Community Foundation's general scholarship application at www.yourcommunityfoundation.org (click on Scholarships, then Scholarship Application).
- Visit the Scholarships page of www.yourcommunityfoundation.org (click on Scholarships, then Community Foundation Scholarships) to review the eligibility criteria for each scholarship and determine if you are eligible for one of our scholarships.
- Carefully read the instructions and gather the information you will need to answer the prequalifying questions.
- If you receive a link to the scholarship application, log in and begin to answer the questions.
- Make sure you use a valid email address. You can exit and save your application to complete another day. Remember your log in information as you will need it to get back into your application.
- Request copies of your transcripts, SAT/ACT scores, income tax forms, or other required documentation listed on the checklist.

Prior to March 1

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid – commonly known as the FAFSA – should be filled out online at www.fafsa.ed.gov no later than March 1. This is the preferred method of filing due to a lower error rate and faster processing time. Paper forms will be available by calling 1-800-4333243. You may request up to three forms. A PDF version of the FAFSA will be available at www.federalstudentaid.ed.gov. The PDF may be completed on your computer or by hand and mailed to the address provided for processing.

Scholarship Scams

During your senior year of high school, you may notice the volume of mail you receive substantially increases. Offers abound from colleges and universities, financial agencies and companies with offers that guarantee college scholarships for just $39.99! Annually, scholarship scams take millions of dollars from unsuspecting students. Government attorneys investigating fraud in scholarship search services offer these six clues to identify “scholarship scams.”

- They ask for money. A legitimate scholarship does not require a fee to apply.
- They offer a money back guarantee. Most guarantees have restrictions that are impossible to meet.
- They claim to have access to information that can't be found anywhere else. The same scholarships are listed in dozens of free databases, directories and catalogs, as well as online.
- They ask for a credit card or bank account number. Never give out this information. You might unknowingly sign up for automatic withdrawals that you cannot stop – only the organization can stop automatic withdrawals. It might be months before you notice and contacting the organization is difficult.
- They claim they will do all the work. For most scholarships, the applicant must fill out and submit the application themselves. All they do is perform a search of free databases that you can do yourself.
- They congratulate you on winning a contest you never entered or for being selected by a national foundation. If you didn't apply for it – you didn't win it. Now that you know what to look for, it's easy to not get taken in by scholarship scams. Just use common sense and do your own research. This scholarship directory is a great place to start!

Frequently Asked Questions About Financial Aid

Q) How do I apply for financial aid?

A) There is a standard procedure you must follow to apply for financial aid. This process starts in early January of your senior year and may continue until late August. This process is separate from applying for admission to college. It may seem complex, but if you take it one step at a time, it won't be so overwhelming.

Q) Where can I go for help?

A) Your guidance counselor or the financial aid office of the college that interests you can help you. They can tell you what forms to fill out and the steps to follow to receive the financial aid available to you. Follow their instructions carefully. Filling out a form incorrectly or submitting it late could cause you to lose money.

Q) What forms are necessary to apply for financial aid?

A) To apply for financial aid you must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You must file this form to be eligible for federal, state and other institutional aid (including loans). Please note that some colleges also may require students to complete supplemental financial forms. Be sure to check with each college to which you are applying for their required financial aid forms and application deadlines.

Q) How do I complete and file the FAFSA?

A) The preferred method for filing the FAFSA is online at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Before filling out the online FAFSA, it is recommended that you and one parent apply for PIN numbers and complete the "FAFSA on the Web Worksheet," an optional tool that can be downloaded from www.fafsa.ed.gov. Completing this worksheet will help ensure you have the requested information readily available and in the correct order, making completion of the FAFSA easier.

Q) What if I don't have access to the Internet? Is there another method of filing the FAFSA?

A) While the U.S. Department of Education encourages filing the FAFSA online—due to a lower error rate and faster processing time—a paper version is available by calling (800) 433-3242. You may request up to three forms. In addition, a PDF version of the FAFSA will be available at www.FederalStudentAid.ed.gov. From there you can access the PDF, complete the form by computer or hand, and mail it to the address provided for processing. Whether you choose to submit your FAFSA online or by mail, it should be received at the federal processing center no later than March 1, 2010.

Q) When do I file the FAFSA?

A) The State of Florida priority filing date for the FAFSA for high school seniors and college undergraduates is March 1 in order to be eligible for state aid. Be sure to apply as soon as possible after January 1 of your senior year (or the calendar year when you plan to enroll in a college, university or other school). You can apply for financial aid after March 1, but you may not be considered for state and federal financial aid programs.

Q) Our tax forms aren't completed yet. Should we wait to file the FAFSA?

A) Completed 1040 forms make completing the FAFSA easier, but it is not essential. You are allowed to use estimated information—based on the previous year’s tax return—on the FAFSA. If you use estimated information, you will be asked to verify that information later. It is better to estimate and file by March 1 than to wait and file late.

Q) Who completes the FAFSA?

A) The student applicant and the parent(s) fill out the FAFSA.

Q) What if my parents are divorced, separated or have remarried?

A) If your parents are divorced or separated, you and the parent you live with the majority of the time fill out the FAFSA. If the parent you live with has remarried, his or her spouse’s information also must be included on the FAFSA.

Q) What should I do after completing my forms?

A) If you complete the FAFSA online, you will be instructed as to what pages you print. If you file by mail, make photocopies to keep for your files. Then get a certificate of mailing from the post office when you mail your financial aid application form. This certificate verifies the mailing date and destination of your form. Only use first class mail. Certified or express mail will actually slow down the processing of your forms.

Q) What happens at the federal processing center?

A) The federal processing center takes the information you provide on the FAFSA and uses it to calculate how much you and your parents will be expected to pay toward college expenses. The federal processor also calculates your eligibility for the Federal Pell Grant. The federal processing center will send the results and data from your application to all the colleges and universities you list on your FAFSA. The federal processor will forward you a Student Aid Report. The SAR will list your expected family contribution. They will email you the SAR if you provided an email address. If not, or if you filed a paper version of the FAFSA, they will mail your SAR. If you filed a paper form, you will receive your SAR about four to six weeks after you submit your FAFSA.

Financial Aid Definitions

The world of financial aid has a language all its own. Financing your college education can be challenging enough without having to decipher acronyms or trying to figure out exactly what a term means. This glossary should help you as you begin your search for scholarships, grants and other forms of financial aid.

Acceptance Form

The written acknowledgement by the student of receipt of an award letter. The form usually provides for acceptance or rejection of offered aid.

Assets

Cash on hand in checking and savings accounts; trusts, stocks, bonds, other securities (excluding retirement accounts and primary residence); real estate, income producing property, business equipment, and business inventory. Considered in determining Expected Family Contribution (EFC) under the regular formula or an institutional eligibility test.

Award Letter

A means of notifying successful financial aid applicants of the assistance being offered. The award letter usually provides information on the types and amounts of aid offered, as well as specific program information, student responsibilities, and the conditions that govern the award. It generally provides students with the opportunity to accept or decline the aid offered.

Budget

An alternate term for the cost of attendance.

Campus-based Programs

The term commonly applied to those U.S. Department of Education federal student aid programs administered by institutions of post-secondary education. Includes: Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) and Federal Work-Study (FWS).

Cost of Attendance

Costs associated with attending college. Can include: tuition and fees, room and board, allowances for books, supplies, transportation, personal expenses, child care and costs related to a disability.

Departmental Scholarship

An award of gift assistance that is specifically designated for a recipient in a particular academic department within the institution.

Dependent Student

A student who does not qualify as an independent student and whose parental income and asset information is used in calculating Expected Family Contribution.

Expected Family Contribution (EFC)

The amount a student and his/her family are expected to pay toward the cost of attending college. This amount is determined by a formula established by Congress. The formula includes factors such as taxable and non-taxable income, assets, family size, number in college, etc.

Federal Academic Competitiveness Grant

Grant available to recent high school graduates who receive a Pell Grant, enroll full-time, are U.S. citizens, have completed certain programs of rigorous high school coursework, and meet other criteria.

Federal Direct Plus (Parent Loan)

Long-term loan made available to parents of dependent students. The federal government provides the loan capital; selected educational institutions serve as the administrators. Interest rates are linked to 52-week Treasury bill rates, but may not exceed nine percent. May be used to replace Expected Family Contribution.

Federal Direct Stafford Loan Program (Subsidized and Unsubsidized)

Long-term, low interest student loan administered by selected educational institutions. The federal government provides the loan capital; the school serves as the administrator. Variable interest rate not to exceed eight and one-quarter percent. Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans can be used to replace the EFC.

Federal Methodology

The formula used to determine a family's eligibility for federal aid.

Federal Pell Grant

A grant program for low-income undergraduate students who have not yet completed a first bachelor's degree.

Federal Perkins Loan

One of the campus-based programs; a long-term, low interest loan program for both undergraduate and graduate students.

Federal Plus Loan (Parent Loan)

Long-term loan made available to parents of dependent students. Private lending institutions provide the loan capital, and the federal government administers the program. Interest rates are linked to 52-week Treasury bill rates, but may not exceed nine percent. May be used to replace the EFC.

Federal Smart Grant (National Science and Mathematics Access to Retain Talent Grant)

Grant available during the third and fourth years of college to full-time Pell Grant recipients with 3.0 GPAs who are majoring in physical, life or computer sciences; mathematics, technology or engineering; or in a foreign language determined critical to national security.

Federal Stafford Loan Program (Subsidized and Unsubsidized)

Long-term, low interest student loan administered by the federal government. Private lending institutions provide the loan capital. Formerly known as Guaranteed Student Loan. Variable interest rate, not to exceed eight and one-quarter percent. Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans may be used to replace EFC.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG)

One of the campus-based programs; grants to undergraduate students of exceptional financial need who have not completed their first bachelor's degree and who are financially in need of this grant to enable them to pursue their education. Priority for FSEOG awards must be given to Federal Pell Grant recipients with the lowest EFCs.

Federal Work-study Programs (FWS)

One of the campus-based programs; a part-time employment program that provides jobs for undergraduate and graduate students who are in need of such earnings to meet a portion of their educational expenses. Note: Students not offered FWS may be given the opportunity for on-campus employment through a work program sponsored by the institution.

Financial Aid Award

An offer of financial assistance to a student attending a post-secondary educational institution. This award may be in the form of one or more of the following types of financial aid: repayable loan, a non-repayable grant and/or scholarship, and/or student employment.

Financial Aid Package

The total financial aid award a student receives. The aid may come from federal, state, institutional, or private sources and may include loans, grants, scholarships, and/or employment.

Financial Need

The difference between the institution's cost of attendance and the EFC.

Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)

The form used to apply for federal and state student aid, processed at no cost to the applicant. It is used to determine a student's eligibility for federal grant, loan, and work-study funds and most other need based awards. The FAFSA is to be completed by the student and the student's parents, if applicable, and can be done electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov. A paper form will be available by calling (800) 433-3243. You may request up to three forms. In addition, a PDF version of the FAFSA will be available at www.FederalStudentAid.ed.gov. You can access the PDF, complete the form on the computer or by hand, and mail to the address provided for processing. The Department of Education encourages filing the FAFSA electronically due to a lower error rate and faster processing time. Students attending college for the first time or students returning to college and completing the FAFSA for the first time must file before March 1, prior to when they start school in the fall. Students renewing state and federal aid awards must file a Renewal FAFSA prior to March 1.

Full-time Student

Generally, an undergraduate who is taking a minimum of 12 credits per semester or academic term at an institution with standard academic terms.

Gift Aid

Financial aid, such as a scholarship or grant that does not require repayment or require that work be performed.

Grant

A type of financial aid that does not have to be repaid; usually awarded on the basis of need. Often referred to as gift aid.

Independent Student

A student who has attained age 24, or who has not attained age 24, but is an orphan; is, or has been through age 18 a ward of the court; is a veteran; is married; is a graduate or professional student; has legal dependents other than a spouse; or presents documentation of other unusual circumstances demonstrating independence to the student financial aid administrator at the post-secondary institution.

Institutional Aid

Aid that educational institutions make available from their own funds to their students.

Loan

An advance of funds which is evidenced by a promissory note requiring the recipient to repay the specified amount(s) under prescribed conditions.

Merit-Based Awards

Awards to students who excel in areas such as academics, sports, leadership, music, art or dance, and meet sponsor-selected program requirements through audition, academic record or recommendation. Financial conditions are not considered.

Military Scholarships

Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) scholarships are available for the Army, Navy and Air Force at many colleges and universities throughout the United States. These scholarships cover tuition and fees, books and supplies, and include a subsistence allowance. For more information, contact a local recruiter or campus ROTC office.

Need Analysis

A system used to estimate a student applicant's need for financial assistance to help meet his/her educational expenses. Need analysis consists of two primary components: determination of an estimate of the applicant's and/or family's ability to contribute to educational expenses, and determination of an accurate estimate of the educational expenses themselves.

Need-based Awards

Awards to students who demonstrate they and their family cannot pay for all of the cost of post-secondary education on their own. Academic merit may or may not be considered.

Nonrenewable Award

An award that is given only once.

Part-time Student

Generally one who is taking less than 12 credits per semester or quarter per academic term at an institution with standard academic terms. Some aid programs will determine eligibility by the number of hours for which a student is registered.

PIN (U.S. Department of Education)

A personal identification number that can be used each year by students and parents to electronically "sign" the Free Application for Federal Student Aid and access federal aid information.

Renewable Award

An award that can be earned for more than one year providing conditions set by the distributing institution are met by the recipient.

Scholarship

A type of financial assistance that does not require repayment or employment; may be based on merit, need, or merit plus need.

Self-help Assistance

Funds provided through the work and effort of the student, including savings from past earnings, income from present earnings or a loan to be repaid from earnings during or after college.

Statement of Selective Service Registration

A document students must sign for federal and state need-based assistance in which male students indicate that they have, if required to do so, registered with the Selective Service. Students may register at their high school or at the post office and should do so on or shortly after their 18th birthday.

Student Aid Report (SAR)

The report provided to the student after filing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). This document summarizes applicant information, the EFC for the student, and other messages related to the student's application.

Student Contribution

An estimate of the student's ability to contribute to post-secondary expenses. This is a part of the EFC.

Subsidized Loan

A loan on which the government pays the interest until repayment begins. This type of loan may not be used to assist with the Expected Family Contribution and is awarded only to students who demonstrate financial need.

Title IV Programs

Federally funded programs that include the Federal Perkins Loan, Federal SEOG, Federal Work Study, Federal Stafford and Federal Direct Stafford Loan, Federal PLUS and Federal Direct PLUS Loan, and the Federal Pell Grant.

Unmet Need

The difference between a student's total cost of attendance at a specific institution and the student's total available resources.

Unsubsidized Loan

A loan on which the student pays the interest beginning at the time of loan disbursement. Arrangements may be made to capitalize the interest. This type of a loan may be used to assist with the Expected Family Contribution. Financial need is not a factor, but the student must complete the FAFSA process.

Verification

The process of confirming information submitted on student aid applications through the comparison of specified documents to the data on the Student Aid Report (SAR) or other applications for student aid. This often requires submission of a copy of federal income tax forms.
